

2009 MICHELIN GUIDE RECOMMENDED

Wood Spoon

Brazilian

This small, friendly, and unpretentious new eatery near the Fashion and Jewelry Districts has quickly won a local following. Basic and comfortable, it combines bright colors in a simple, clean, Art Deco style with a short, affordable menu of petite, tasty dishes.

Among the favorites are feijoada, a bean stew served (on Saturdays) with rice and salted pork, or pork burger with roasted cabbage and onion. A good selection of small plates may include cohinha, beignets filled with shredded chicken or shrimp with spicy mayonnaise; as well as skewer-grilled pork sausage with black beans, excellent roasted plantain, and spicy salsa.

The caffeine-loaded Guarama, a Brazilian staple, goes down smoothly with a dessert of flan or Brigadeiro—simple chocolate candy.
